Federated Charities Drive Organizes Today At Lunch

Malcolm Ransom Presents Line of Action To Committee

Today the organization plans for the Federated Charities Campaign get under way. The Campaign proper commences on Monday morning. This year's objective for McGill University is $17,000 of which the students body is expected to contribute $2,000.

The committee this year is headed by R. Malcolm Ransom and those in charge of the campaign in the various faculties and schools are: Arts and Science, Arnold L. Johnson; Commerce, Walter Markham; Medicine, Murray McIntire and George Lilley; Dentistry, Erol Clift; Law, Kenneth McNamee; Engineering, Jack Houghton; Architecture, H. Blatchford; Royal Victoria College, Deborah Barbour; Library School, Bert Hamilton; Graduate School, Ronald Leatham; Graduate Nurses, Miss Flint; McGill School of Physical Education, Helen MacDonald; Theology, Keith MacKenzie; and Publicity, John H. McDonald.

ORGANIZATION LUNCHEON

An organization luncheon has been called for today by Malcolm Ransom, the leader of the campaign. This luncheon is an annual fixture given by the Students' Council to the leaders of the drive. At today's luncheon Lorne Gales, President of the Students' Society, will say a few words as will Dr. Pedley of the Federated Charities. Dr. Pedley will outline briefly the ultimate use of the money collected.

It is hoped this year that those in charge of the various classes in the college will manage to get in touch with the key men in the campaign over the coming week-end so that on Monday morning all will be ready to launch the campaign. This year it is expected to collect the allotted amount as there is a definite upturn in business and it is felt that the average student does not feel the hard times as much as formerly.

A feature of this year's campaign will be the fostering of the "Give before being asked" spirit. There are many who would give if they were approached. Naturally every member of the undergraduate body should be approached but there are cases where it is impossible to reach certain certain people. In these cases if the people in question would take the trouble of getting in touch with their class presidents the collecting would be facilitated.

To Use New Yell

Glee Club May Lead In Sing-song

Again the need of student co-operation is being asked in order to spur their team on to victory. The cheer leaders need the support of the student body in order to make their yells effective. They have incorporated a new McGill yell which they used at the game against Queen's. This is being printed so that all who attend the game on Saturday against Western will be able to use it.

Yay Redmen, Yay Redmen, R.E.D.M.E.N.
Our fighting Redmen,
McGill's own Redmen
Yay-ay-ay Redmen.

All who are not acquainted with the Western Yell will find it in the Student Handbook. It is well to learn this as a cheer for Western will undoubtedly be given.

It is expected that several members of the Glee Club will assist in leading several songs for the student body.

Violinist To Render Selections Sunday

A musical evening will be sponsored by the S.C.M. at Open House on Sunday, October 28th at 8.45 p.m. directly after the Chapel service in Divinity Hall. Jules Lapointe, violinist, of Comm. '34, will be accompanied by Sydney Whiteman at the piano. Some of the selections to be played during the evening follow:

Sonata, Greig.....Jules Lapointe
Prelude in D minor, Rachmaninoff.....Sydney Whiteman
Lohus Land, Scott.....Sydney Whiteman
Le Papillon, La Vallerie.....Sydney Whiteman
Canebrake, Gardner.....Jules Lapointe
Ave Maria, Schubert.....Jules Lapointe
Hejre Kati, Hubay.....Jules Lapointe

After the programme is over, refreshments will be served to those present. The hostess for the evening will be Mrs. W. A. Gifford.

Pit Ten Dance

As two weeks ago, there will be a tea-dance in the Pit immediately succeeding the McGill-Western football game tomorrow afternoon.

Unethical Practices In Canada Demand Control Of Industry

System of Codes Advocated To Check Cutthroat Competition

N.R.A. EVALUATED

Pick and Zimmerman Address Opening Meeting Of Political Economy Club

The advisability of establishing some form of industrial control in Canada in view of the many predatory and unethical trade practices existing today was emphasized last night at the opening meeting of the Political Economy Club held in the Arts Building, when Alfred Pick and Alfred Zimmerman, Honour students in Economics, delivered papers on the "American N.R.A. in retrospect; A Canadian N.R.A. in prospect." The first speaker outlined the accomplishments of the N.R.A., while the second speaker discussed the need of establishing a similar system of control in Canada.

Dr. Leacock, the Honorary President, at the outset of the meeting, described in brief the aims and history of the Club, now entering on the 21st year since its inception.

Aims Outlined

The first speaker, Pick, traced briefly the aims and organization of the N.R.A. in America, touching on the system of codes covering industry. The purpose was not only to relieve the country from the effects of the depression, but to initiate a policy of price-raising to lift the burden of debt and to reduce the army of the unemployed. He then outlined the effect of the N.R.A. on industry and on the various classes involved. Prices have shown an appreciable advance; while all other indices of economic activity have likewise risen. Labour as a whole has materially advanced, especially the

Editorial Board For Old McGill Complete

Marjorie Smith Appointed As Women's Editor

With the completion of the Editorial Board of this year's annual preparations for the publication of "Old McGill" are well under way, and already evidences of the splendid organization and plans can easily be recognized. The newest appointment to the Board was that of Miss Marjorie Smith, Arts '36, who will fulfil the function of Women's Editor.

The change which will be most noticeable in the forthcoming 1935 Edition will be the overwhelmingly large demand for contributions to the Art Section. All those interested in this type of work should take advantage of this splendid opportunity afforded them to display artistic talent and should apply to the Art Editor for complete information concerning the themes for the illustrations.

Photographic contracts have already been secured by the Photographic Editor who has drawn up agreements with the Rice Studios who will attend to the portraits, and the Street Photo Supply Co. to take all the class pictures. Class presidents are urged to get in touch with them immediately in order to secure convenient appointments.

The individual charge for the Annual will again be $4.00 to be subtracted from each student's quota of caution money. If so desired.

An important change has been made in the MacDonald's Section, the exact nature of which has not yet made public.

Hallowe'en Dance

Strathcona Hall Will Be Scene Of Gaiety

Next Wednesday evening Strathcona Hall will be transformed from its usual austere attitude into one of alternating fear and merriment. For on October 31st the witches will walk and the cats will arch their backs and Norman Jennison will supply the necessary music at the Hall.

The committee announce that the sale of tickets will be limited to one hundred and fifty. This will prevent any overcrowding which might otherwise occur. The atmosphere, though eerie, will be pervaded with friendliness, and novelty dances, broom dances, and Paul Joneses will be the order of the evening. Festivities will commence at 8.30, and enjoyment will be the keynote of the evening.

Junior Debating League Draws Up Plans For Season

THE Junior Debating League, holding their first scheduled debating fixture this Monday, have planned an open forum for the benefit of those who wish to become acquainted with the general procedure of their debates and the quality of speeches presented. This meeting Monday will be, as it were, a practice for future engagements, much in the form of the Debating League practice nights.

During the course of the same meeting, the schedule for the season will be discussed, and tentative plans drawn up. The first encounter of the season as a member of the Montreal Debating League is on November 13th, the speakers will possibly be selected Monday for this debate, which is one of the three held under the auspices of the Montreal Debating League during the season.

The executive advises that all men taking pre-law courses will be grouped together and special work done under the guidance of a chairman. Another innovation this year will be the appointment of an honorary president, who will be chosen from amongst the ranks of the Debating Union. Thus the meeting is expected by the executive to be an important one, and a large turnout, particularly of Freshmen, is expected.

Exchange Student States Opinions

Winston Porter Tells First Impressions of McGill

MOSTLY FAVORABLE

Notes Marked Lack of Enthusiasm in Student Enterprises

"American influence is greater in the west—there is more noise, more shouting, more 'ballyhoo.' McGill seems more conservative than the University of Alberta," stated Winston Porter, this year's exchange student at McGill, in an interview by the Daily yesterday. The students' elections, for example, impressed him as being conducted in a comparatively quiet manner; for at Alberta such sights as campaign posters and election speeches are fairly common, and there is as much enthusiasm for them as in political elections.

Another aspect in which McGill shows less enthusiasm than his Alma Mater is the students' attitude toward sports. Our roofing section seems to him feeble in its applause, and our cheerleaders unusually few in number.

On the other hand, there are some ways in which McGill possesses greater freedom, stated Porter. The professors are more outspoken in their opinions, and the students are not compelled—something which they have perhaps never fully appreciated—to sit in single armed chairs.

As for its appearance, the McGill campus is very beautiful, and both it and the buildings are most picturesque. One deficiency that Porter finds, however, is our limited ballroom floor space which the westerners find somewhat confined.

When asked why he chose McGill as his exchange Alma Mater, Porter explained that he is an Honour student in Commerce and Economics, and had heard much of the excellence of McGill's course in these particular fields. We are famed as far west as Alberta, it would seem, for these, and for our Medical Faculty in particular.

The Daily our exchange student considers both efficient and interesting for in his estimation it publishes about three times as much as the Alberta "Gateway," which is not a daily publication.

When slyly asked his opinion of the co-eds, Porter confessed that he was acquainted with none as yet, although he would welcome the chance of becoming so, but stated, with a covert glance at your reporter, that they seemed very charming at a distance. That may be an invitation, or, on the other hand, a warning!

In conclusion, Porter wished to express his appreciation for the consideration shown him by members both of the Faculty and the Council.

Book Exchange

The Book Exchange opens this afternoon from 1.00 to 5.30 and Saturday morning for payment.

Chess Club

All chess players are invited to come to the Union some time this afternoon, and any other Friday afternoon, for the purpose of meeting other members of the club in friendly battle. All tournament games are to be played as soon as possible, and the results reported to the Executive.

Women's Union Of McGill University Meets At R.V.C.

Mrs. Vaughn Present At Gathering Yesterday

REPORTS PRESENTED

Committees To Aid In Federated Charities Campaign

The Women's Union of McGill University held its first semi-annual meeting of the year yesterday afternoon in the Common Room of Royal Victoria College, under the chairmanship of Mary V. Hamilton. Mrs. Vaughan and Deborah Barbour were also on the platform. Mrs. Vaughan gave a short talk on the history of the Women's Union since its foundation. The Union was founded soon after the admission of women to the University for the first time. At that time there were only nine members. The society, which then went under the name of Donalda, met for the first two years in two rooms over the Redpath Library; later they moved to the east wing of the Arts Building. It is interesting to note that for the first twenty-five years there were no failures among the women students.

Freshies Feted

The work of the Freshman Committee was outlined by Harriet Colby, at the beginning of the year the Juniors gave two teas for the Freshies, at which they attempted to bring the newcomers into closer contact with the upperclassmen. More pains were taken to introduce the Freshies to each other and to the older girls. The committee will continue the good work on Monday evening, when it is holding a dinner in the Grill Room of the Union previous to the Prom.

Jean Harvey, after reviewing the activities of the Delta Sigma, said that the society is going to send two members to the intercollegiate debating club in Toronto. This will be the third time since 1929 that McGill has sent debaters.

The Music Club, declared Janet Hamilton, will hold weekly meetings with instruction for students interested in singing. In January the club will begin practice for a musical play. The Societe Francaise was represented by Marthe Michaud.

To Aid Campaign

According to Deborah Barbour, the presidents of the various years are organizing committees to assist the Federated Charities in this year's campaign.

The Women's Union, to which all co-eds automatically belong upon the payment of a universal fee, aids financially the Department of Physical Education, the Library School, the Women's Medical Society, and many other campus organizations.

Sir Percy Sykes To Talk On Persia

Noted English Author Will Give Illustrated Lecture

Sir Percy Sykes, noted English explorer and author, will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Exploration in Persia" this Sunday evening in the Church of the Messiah. It will be given under the auspices of the People's Forum.

The lecturer, who is the guest in Canada of the National Council of Education, has explored in Persia for some twenty-six years and is generally conceded to be the leading authority on his subject. He has travelled widely in Central Asia, and has held various appointments in Persia.

Sir Percy Sykes is a gold medalist of the Royal Geographical Society, and was awarded the gold medal of the Royal Empire Society for his work "History of Exploration." For explorations of military importance he was awarded a special gold MacGregor Memorial medal. He is Honorary Secretary of the Royal Central Asian Society.

The "Times" (London) had the following to say regarding his "History of Persia":

"The author has achieved a remarkable success. We have read his work through from beginning to end with unflagging interest. The illustrations and maps of these two volumes are superb."

Sir Percy Sykes will illustrate his lecture with coloured slides.

Research Grants

Students of the United States and Canada actually engaged in research and personally in need of the aid, are offered Grants in Aid of Research by the American Council of Learned Societies. Applicants must possess a Doctor's degree, and must make their application not later than December 15th. Awards will be made in March.

S.C.M. Returns Show Encouraging Results To Date

THE financial drive of the S.C.M. this week is progressing very satisfactorily, and, according to the authorities, the returns to date have been most encouraging. The canvass of the faculty is in full swing. By Saturday it is hoped that the campaign will be over and that the sum originally specified will be collected in full. The canvass is being held in order that the S.C.M. may have enough funds to carry on its work.

The captains are asked to check up on canvassers to date, and to report daily to Strathcona Hall. Several large subscriptions have already been received, some of them from students, while many pledges have come in during the week as well. Again those in charge of the collecting are asked to make reports to the Treasurer daily.

The educational value of the campaign has repeatedly come to the fore, and it is hoped that a really valuable contact has been established with many who would not otherwise know of its activities on the campus.

C.O.T.C. Gets New Hon. Lieutenant

Lieut. Col. Magee Succeeds Late General Sir Arthur Currie

PAST COMMANDER

Was Commanding Officer Of McGill Corps Before The War

Lieut. Col. A. A. Magee, D.S.O. has been gazetted Honorary Lieutenant Colonel of the McGill University Contingent, C.O.T.C. in succession to the late Gen. Sir A. W. Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., V.D. The C.O.T.C. is very pleased with the appointment of Lieut. Col. Magee, particularly as he is a past O.C. of the local corps and even though he has been on the Reserve since 1921, Lieut. Col. Magee has kept up his interest in his Militia Unit.

Lieut. Col. Magee commenced soldiering when he joined the 26th Middlesex Regiment of London, Ontario in 1899 and he served with that Unit until he retired to the Reserve of Officers in 1907. During his connection with the 26th Regiment, he was for two years Hon. A.D.C. to the Lieut. Governor of Ontario. On graduating from the University of Toronto in Arts and Law in 1905, he joined the C.P.R. Legal Staff. Five years later he left the C.P.R. to form the legal firm in Montreal of Cook & Magee which is still in existence.

On the outbreak of war, Lieut. Col. Magee joined the McGill C.O.T.C. with rank of Major and became 2nd in command. In November 1915, Major Magee was promoted Lieut. Colonel and given command of the 148th overseas Battalion C.E.F. This battalion was Officer and N.C.O.'ed by McGill men. When it was found necessary to break up the 148th in England, Lieut. Col. Magee was claimed by the Staff and served as a General Staff Officer in England and with Canadian Corps Headquarters in France under Sir A. W. Currie. Whilst in France, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order and was twice mentioned in despatches.

Following the war, Lieut. Col. Magee was in command of the C.O.T.C., but pressure of business necessitated his returning to the Reserve in 1921. In 1926 Lieut. Col. Magee was appointed Honorary A.D.C. to Lord Willingdon whilst Governor General of Canada.

The C.O.T.C. naturally feels honoured in having Lieut. Col. Magee as honorary Lieut. Colonel and his fine record gives inspiration to every Officer and Cadet.

Club To Portray Modern Symposium

The next meeting of the Philosophical Club is to be held on Thursday, November 1st at 8 p.m. in Strathcona Hall. At this gathering members of the society intend to present the points of view of the various characters which appear in Dickens's "Modern Symposium." Each speaker will present his view in a five minute talk. Dr. Fulton is taking the part of the critic. Professor McLennan will uphold the view of the speaker while J. McCabe holds forth as the biologist, M. Bloomfield as the cynic, Betty Elliot as the poet, and Lawrence MacGregor as the aristocrat.

Particulars may be obtained from the office of the Secretary to the Dean of the Graduate Faculty.

Freshman Function Scheduled For This Monday Evening

Union Ballroom Will Be Scene of Combined Affair

DINNERS NOVEL IDEA

Decorations to be in Spirit Of Halloween

Freshmen and Freshettes will receive their first social introduction to social life at McGill on Monday evening when the annual Freshman Prom will be held in the Ballroom of the Union. Those responsible for this event are the executives of the Arts Undergraduate Society and the Women's Union of McGill University. This gathering serves as a means of introduction for those who have not yet become acquainted with their fellow students at McGill. The executives hope that those who are in their first year of college will take advantage of this annual function.

Dinner Sponsored

Before the dance proper commences dinners will be held for both the Freshmen and the Freshettes. The Women's Union is sponsoring the dinner for the Freshettes and will make use of the Grill Room for this event. The following members of the executive will be present: Mary V. Hamilton, president; Elizabeth Millar, vice-president; Deborah Barbour, secretary; M. E. Heasley. At the same time the Freshmen will be holding their banquet in the Union Cafeteria. The executive of the Arts Undergraduate Society will officiate at this function.

Following the respective dinners, the students will adjourn to the Ballroom where the remainder of the evening will be devoted to dancing. This portion of the entertainment is being held with the co-operation of the Union House Committee, the Executives being Donald Small, president; H. McHugh, vice-president; D. H. McDonald, Secretary. Hal Ayres' orchestra will supply the music for the occasion, and it is understood that the band will play several Paul Joneses in order to get the Freshmen better acquainted with the Freshettes. This is one of the most ambitious Freshman Proms yet attempted, and it has been postponed from this evening in order to ensure a large attendance.

In keeping with the festive spirit of Halloween the Ballroom will be decorated in the black and orange which is associated with the occasion. It is hoped by the executive that the character of the environment will aid in promoting that spirit of frivolity and joy which is so essential for a successful evening.

Bridge Tournament Results Are Issued

McSweyn and Patterson Lead With High Scores

The results of last Tuesday's Bridge Tournament were decidedly encouraging, and, on the whole, showed promise of an even greater measure of success in the near future.

The competition was favoured with an exceptionally large turnout, representative of our campus "Bridge Fiends," of which the majority were women.

Owing to the system of duplicate bridge being, on the whole, unfamiliar, considerable time was lost. However, this contingency will be provided for and corrected by the next tournament to be held in about two weeks. The notice to this effect will appear in the Daily at some future date.

Possible Match Points—105

East-West
1. McSweyn and Patterson	92
2. Robert and Pugh	80
3. Misses Jardine and Jardine	56
4. Misses Townsend & Dumfries	54 1/2
5. Misses Armstrong & Orr	48
6. Misses Sessenwein and Dube	36 1/2
North-South
1. Shepherd and Shepherd	85
2. Ainscough and Mainwaring	80
3. Hull and Todd	47
4. Jacob and Miss Felvus	45
5. Bisky and Kert	41 1/2
6. Misses Brennan and Brown	39 1/2
7. Misses Painter & McKinnon	37

Book Exchange

The Executive of the Book Exchange announces that it will be open this afternoon from 1.00 to 5.30 p.m. and also tomorrow morning in order to pay those students who have money coming to them as a result of the sales of their respective books by the Exchange. Payments will be made to those students whose names are on the back of today's Daily. These names include those from A to M, including Mc and Mac. Students are advised to consult the Daily carefully and to call for their money within the times specified as the committee will adhere rigidly to the hours allotted.

Education Breeds Apes

A MAN of great talents is a public nuisance in this respect, that he often becomes a magnet which attracts a horde of Little Men, whose sole excuse for existence is that they ape the ways of the Great Man. They usually do it very badly, and worse still, they almost invariably fashion their dull mimics of some personal prejudice of their master.

There is a case in point which is a particularly sore one with us just now. A certain highly-esteemed teacher is strongly antipathetic to newspapers. We can excuse this and still hold absolutely no grudge. After all, a newspaper is never an excellent specimen of art or workmanship. It takes liberties with our language—often, indeed, it goes further, and carries out a wholesale massacre. Newspaper reporters habitually write about things of which they have absolutely no knowledge, or at best very little. Too often, their medium of expression is a tool which they never have, and never will learn to employ correctly. Ah yes, we are indeed an imperfect lot.

The precise professor has never been able to understand why a daily newspaper is not a model of expression and a textbook of learning. We know why, but let us not bother about that.

He makes a hobby of clipping some of the most atrocious editorials from various newspapers, and reading them aloud to his most favoured pupils, with all the frills and effects. He does it very well, very amusingly.

Unfortunately, this form of amusement is of a dangerously contagious nature. The Great Man infects the Little Men with the same virus. A bright spark of his class thumbs through his daily paper, and pounces upon a split infinitive, or a misplaced semi-colon, clips the faulty piece, and at the next meeting reads it aloud with great gusto. He snickers. The other little men observing the reaction of the Great Man, dutifully snicker too. It may be the wise thing to do. There is always the illusion of a 49% changing to a 65% examination paper.

It is not very difficult to pick faults, to be caustic, sitting in an easy chair with plenty of leisure and a total ignorance of the conditions governing the object of your causticity. Moreover, it takes a little less intelligence, and a great deal less industry to pick a fault than to make it. It is this crass snickering at the inconsequential that infuriates us.

A good cure would be to hold a gun and a stop-watch over the snickerer, and give him four minutes, fifty-five seconds, to write a three-mast head—exactly 17 units per line—in select English. That would be a little cruel perhaps, but certainly justifiable.

Why cannot critics realize that the daily newspaper can never be an instrument of fine expression—the demands placed upon it are too great for that—but that it has, nevertheless, a definite purpose to fulfill? The questions should be, whether or not it has fulfilled its proper purpose, and not of the academic nicety of its language.

And in parting, may we add, keen, original criticism is always refreshing and enjoyable. But second-hand finger-poking is nothing less than detestable.

The Book Exchange

WITH the payment of proceeds from the sale of used text-books commencing today, the most arduous part of the program of the McGill Book Exchange will finish. It is not unfitting that, at this time, some enlightenment as regards the inner workings and operations of this too-little appreciated institution should be made. Particularly is it appropriate that some notification of the voluntary services of those in charge should be extended to the student in the light of certain caustic remarks that passed between a would-be purchaser and an executive member. The offender in point suggested pointedly that the Book Exchange Committee should commence the work of organization towards the end of August in order to better serve him when college opened in October.

The remark was taken in jest, as it deserved to be, and no one was the worse for it. At the same time, it left the committee member with the impression that a wrong attitude toward the Book Exchange conception.

It is generally known that the Book Exchange functions for the convenience of students, due either to ignorance or mis-statement who may take advantage of the opportunity of passing on text-books for which they have no further use and also the opportunity of purchasing requisite books at a reduced sum. The executive committee give their services voluntarily and without remuneration of any sort. Such a system can only function smoothly with the entire co-operation of those who avail themselves of it. This means reading and adhering to certain rules for business hours which appear from time to time in the Daily. It might be said here that the ten per cent which is deducted from the proceeds go to make up the expenses incurred by the Exchange, such as rent, light and printing slips.

MUSIC

Can You Read a Score?

IT IS obvious that any music destined for performance must first have been written, but many listeners seem to lose sight of this simple fact. The musical score is the 'book' of the piece; it is the nearest we can get, materially speaking, to the mind of the composer; it represents, in fact, the most direct approach to any composition. How can the non-musician master its use?

There are different ways of reading scores. To read music in the strict sense would mean that the sight of the notation on the printed page would bring the sound of the actual music directly into the readers' mind, just as the reading of a verbal description brings forth a scene or an event in the imagination. Few of us non-professionals are endowed with this gift of recreating written music at first sight. That calls for a good ear and much practice. There is, however, a makeshift which is amazingly satisfactory, and in the end brings good results. This is the recipe, it will furnish a half hour's amusement, but in more than one case it has become an enduring pastime.

Borrow some recording of a classical symphony from a friend. He will be glad to lend it to you, if you promise to change the needle every time. If you want a specific suggestion, ask him for that best-seller, Mr. Beethoven's Fifth. Then go to the library, look under the composer's name, and take out the score of the piece you have borrowed; there is a fine collection in our Redpath Library. Go home, turn on the gramophone, put the open book on your knees, and go to it. "P-p-p-POM!" exclaims the orchestra, and the printed notes corroborate the evidence of your ears. Follow it through, and forever after that piece will have a new significance for you.

In many respects an orchestral score is easier to follow than the crowded staves of a piano page. Each voice of the symphony is given a line of its own. Your ear will soon pick out the voice which is carrying the melody, and at first the eye will concentrate on one particular staff at a time. When you lose the place, stop the machine and start again, or call in a friend who has learned the trick. Very shortly, no matter how little you know of musical notation, you will at least be able to follow the rise and fall of the pitch, and to tell where the loud and the soft passages come in. Next comes the problem of rhythm. The rudiments of this are in you already. The matter of keys and harmonies you must absorb more slowly, and you will gradually master the Italian expression marks so freely spread about. Go to a rehearsal of the Montreal Orchestra, score in hand, and see in detail how a work is prepared for performance. Finally, go to a concert without the score and see if you don't enjoy yourself. Look the music over in your spare time. See how much care and art and form is worked into those lines, see many beauties which your naked eye used to miss. Acquaint yourself with the principal melodies and rhythms. Before long you will find that the mere sight of this projection on paper of fleeting, moving sounds will be enough to recall the full body of the music to your mind. You will read music.

This is a method which can be mastered by almost anyone, no matter how little he thinks he knows. At any rate, it's worth trying. It opens a back door to the palace of music. It does not quite admit one to that inner sanctum enjoyed by the performer, but it paves the way to a performance of a humbler kind, the art of creative listening.

Paul De Marky Plays

IN THE ballroom of the Ritz on Wednesday evening, Mr. de Marky gave his annual piano recital before a large audience. His programme was unusual. There were just four items, but each was solid music. The Andante and variations which opened the evening, were entertaining and even amusing, just as they should be. The pianist strove to give to the more ornate passages the crisp quality they would have had on Haydn's piano, and succeeded very well. Next came a Fantasy in C, by Robert Schumann. It turned out to be pure piano music, a lovely improvisation. Mr. de Marky played it pleasantly and gracefully, but never really let himself go, although the composer gave him several chances.

After the intermission came Brahms Variations on a theme by Paganini, twenty-eight in all. Mr. de Marky has played them before, but never both sets on the same programme. He deserves the thanks of us all for giving this grand work such prominence. This time, his apparently effortless and wholly brilliant performance showed that this work is not only an absorbing intellectual exercise, but also a beautifully balanced and united composition.

To crown a delightful evening, in his final offering the pianist seemed so carried away by the 'fantasy' trend of his programme, that he played the Chopin B minor Sonata with staggering elan; he soared right on from movement to movement without a pause, ignoring all attempts at interruption on the part of his audience.

Programmes of Interest

LEO-POL MORIN, the French-Canadian pianist who has attained such prominence in Europe, is to play tonight in Tudor Hall at 8.30. His very varied programme is largely modern, and includes works by Ravel, Debussy, De Falla, Granados, Schumann, Chopin and Liszt.

To-morrow afternoon at three o'clock, Mr. Jean Belland, first violinist of the Montreal Orchestra, will give a full recital in Tudor Hall. Those who know Mr. Belland's command of the cello will want to hear him; he will feature Grieg's Sonata, Opus 36, Robert Schmitz, who is well-known to followers of the Montreal Orchestra for his fine concerto work in the last two seasons, is giving a recital this Sunday afternoon in His Majesty's Theatre.

The Sunday after next, Nov. 4th, the Montreal Orchestra opens its fifth season at His Majesty's at 9.00 P.M. Paul Wittgenstein, the Viennese pianist who lost his right arm during the war, will play the Concerto specially written for him by Ravel. This opening concert will also bring us Beethoven's sprightly little first symphony.

Leopold Stokowski is on the air this afternoon at three, playing among other things Mozart's 'Jupiter' symphony and Bach's G minor Passacaglia.

HOOF PRINTS OF PEGASUS

Autumn Night

Twilight pall full-spread on earth awakened,
 Earth rejuvenation, each little soil.
 The rich universe in power unslakened
 Of autumn; growth ripe, vital luscious foil.
 For all the senses, all the aching hearts
 That cry within. And more, a land-plenty.
 A wild eagerness to provide, that starts
 The blood pounding, the strong, man-entity
 Tinging, and makes the lightning world aware
 Of something eternal, something human,
 Something mature. The very ground, the air.
 The wind, the night, trembling reach out and span
 The awful space 'twixt mortal and nature.
 And we are brief, our feet on leaf matting
 Patter our brief existence and the texture
 Of our fleeting thoughts. The dark, tree slanting
 Roofs the outside world. And we are alone.

Except for the fog, obscure companion
 To the night and us. But everywhere
 Around us the autumn sentries station
 Themselves lest the darkness-allure impair
 Our instincts. In-accents the careless perfume
 Strengthened; and as carelessly leaves beat
 Earthwards. A tree, outlined in the chill gloom
 In vague colours; and the wet glossy street;
 Here in joy lurks a life reality. . .

A POEM:

Return to Death

Out of the southland
 The wind calls me home;
 The seas and the sand
 Inveigled in foam.
 The stars all clustered,
 The wisp clouds at dawn:

These forces mustered
 Have triumphed and gone.
 The heart string responds
 But now to a mean.
 The loved in bonds—
 An echo, alone.

Theatre Advances

Princess Theatre

Again the attendance at the Princess Theatre has been excellent and the number of patrons so large that it was hard to gain admittance to see Robert Donat in the "Count of Monte Cristo". The management is forced to hold the picture a second week, beginning next Saturday.

Produced on a lavish scale, with hundreds of supporting players Robert Donat, the young English actor one of the best roles that he has depicted in his picture career. The thrilling story of Edmond Dante, the young Frenchman, torn from his sweetheart's arms by his enemies and unjustly imprisoned and left to rot in the grim Chateau d'If, is made to order for Mr. Donat, and how, when he has lost all hopes of ever seeing daylight again, he meets the sage old Abbe Faria who occupies the next cell to him, tells him of a secret treasure buried on the Island of Monte Cristo, and educates him so that when he finally escapes he may face the world a superman, and how Dante escapes, following the good Abbe's death, locates the treasure, and returns a fabulously wealthy man, to visit a slow and sweet revenge on each of the three enemies responsible for his misery, is without doubt the most exciting and thrilling sequences ever seen in a talking picture.

"Look for the Silver Lining" starring Dorothy Stone and Gus Shy will also remain on the same programme.

PEN PORTRAITS BY ANALYST

SEEING him for the first time, the beholder experiences a distant set-back, almost amounting to disappointment. . . because of his reputation, which is international, because of his numerous works on social, political and economic problems, which have reached all the corners of the globe, one expects that person to have a professional appearance—a high forehead, growing baldness, and a carriage straight and rather haughty. . . instead, the slightly stooped carriage, the lined and ruddy face, the shock of iron-gray hair suggest the person with many years spent on a farm. . .

Nor are his lectures the expected dissertations on complicated problems, made more complicated by the use of long words. . . rather they are delightful, rambling talks, ranging anywhere from sail-boats to Greek or the Bible or Napoleon. . . but this apparent carelessness is only deceptive, for he expects you to know your authorities, and know them well. . . two little characteristics make him stand out. . . his academic gown, at times the worse for wear, and always full of chalk-dust; secondly the way he has of laughing at his own jokes. . . a sort of little chuckle. . . but it is pleasant because it includes the class. . . as a matter of fact his humour is one of the most infectious, the lectures often being one round of laughter after the other. . . his sudden and often announced absences are the amusement and despair of the students. . .

His is not the academic retirement of the average professor. . . no, he is in the midst of the fray. . . the most modern and vital problems of the day have his keen interest, which he expresses in many ways. . . either in books, or in lectures before societies, or in articles in the newspapers, which rouse both enthusiasm and ire. . . even the radio has claimed him, on a program where the professional atmosphere is entirely absent. . .

Both his talents and his industry are prodigious, his knowledge is encyclopaedic. . . one wonders how he manages to have time for so many and varied activities. . . he has some very strong opinions, so strong that to those with opposing ones they appear almost like prejudices. . . but one must give him credit for this. . . that he possesses none of that surface airy cynicism, that lack of faith in anything, which is so striking a feature of many people of today. . .

lower classes of labour, whose standard of living has appreciably advanced. The profits of industry have however also risen.

Criticism Scored
 There has been a great deal of criticism by Hoover and others to the effect that "economic and political liberty" has been sacrificed, stated the speaker, but he scored this objection on the grounds that complete laissez-faire had undoubtedly broken down, and some form of social control, such as the N.R.A. was needed.

The second speaker, Zimmerman, stated that the unethical and unethical competition existing in Canada today demanded the introduction of some form of social control of industry. He quoted liberally from the suppressed Stevens pamphlet on industrial conditions in Canada, and showed the extent to which mass buying and price spreads existed. The speaker then went on to list the many numerous trade practices existing today, showing the strong position that the chain and department stores were in. The small manufacturer and the small retailer, as well as the labourer were being gouged in the process.

Constitutional Difficulties
 Zimmerman then touched on the constitutional aspects of the question, stating the difficulty under the B.N.A. Act of establishing any uniform system of social legislation, in view of provincial powers. He then touched on the probable form that a Canadian N.R.A. would take; such as a revision of existing industrial legislation, the probable repeal of the anti-combines legislation, and the like.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served; and discussion followed, in which Dr. Day, Mr. Forney and Mr. Goldenberg took an active part. Sol Levites was elected Treasurer.

over to replace Leonard Picard, former Treasurer. Arthur Bloomfield, the President, was in the chair.

CALL GOES OUT FOR CAGEMEN WITH 1st. PRACTICE ON MON.

COACH VAN WAGNER and Senior Manager Murray got the old basketball toys out of the mothballs on Monday as the training season swings into vision, with the 1935 campaign just a couple of months away, and prospects of a sixth consecutive intercollegiate championship a spur to this year's martinet-bearers. Monday's practice commences at 6 p.m., and subsequent sessions will take place at the same time every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, all at the M.H.S. gym.

Considerable rebuilding will have to be done on the senior squad this year, since Reed Lowin, George Faulkner and Oakie Ross, of last season's regulars, will not be back this year. Their graduation has left serious gaps in the ranks of the Red team, gaps which will be extremely difficult to fill, due to the fact that three such sterling courtiers are not running around loose anywhere. Patient coaching may develop suitable substitutes for these men from the remaining members of last season's squad, or perchance new blood altogether will be found to fill the ranks. In any case, only the future can disclose the personnel and chances of the McGill senior basketball team for 1935.

Seconds Available
 The Red Seconds should be pretty well intact, since most of the men who comprised their ranks last year are back at college. Probably two or three of these will be moved up into senior company, which would make any predictions concerning their chances just as precarious as prognostications about their bigger brothers.

All men interested, as well as all those who played last year, are asked to be on hand Monday. Bring your own equipment.

- Qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness and fellowship.
- Exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates.
- Physical vigor as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

Further information and application blanks may be obtained from the Provincial Secretary, A. D. P. Heeney, 215 St. James Street West, Montreal.

or from the Registrar's Office.

Red Grid Squad Faces Western Threat Tomorrow

Defeat For Either Team Means Virtual Elimination

Shaughnessy's Charges Favoured to Keep in Title Hunt — Smith and Degnan Still Injured — Will be Kept On Bench as Much as Possible — Riddell Gets Call To Pilot Marlet Forces — Mustangs Report Ace Kicker Sherk in Perfect Shape

McGILL'S Senior Rugby team commences the second half of its intercollegiate schedule here tomorrow as it stacks up for a return engagement with Joe Breen's Western Mustangs. The Redmen chalked up a victory against this same team last week and are confident of repeating their performance. Western, however, boast a renovated Sherk, their one man team, who was apparently suffering from divers ailments last week. McGill also boasts a full-strength line-up, reinforced by Slip Gilbert, star of last year's squad.

(Special to the McGill Daily)

London, Ont., Oct. 25.—A determined team of Mustangs will entrain for Montreal on Friday. Every member of the team is in fine shape, none of the squad having any injuries. Coach Joe Breen states very definitely that Western has a better team than McGill and should beat them. In last Saturday's game the tackling of the team was much improved, and it is about time their plays started to click more regularly, according to Breen. In previous games the Western plays have not been mixed up as well as they should have been, but this will be speedily remedied.

Boyce Sherk has been feeling better after his slight illness and Breen expects him to outkick anything the Redmen can get off the hoof. Sherk was certainly a sick man last Saturday, but if he was under the weather last week what he will do to McGill this week may be just too bad.

Red Attack Strong

Breen is somewhat worried about the strong McGill passing attack but hopes to perfect a defence against it. With "California Joe" Smith and Degnan back in uniform, the McGill team will be strengthened considerably, but Breen says McGill won't catch Western napping with any more of their well-known sweeper plays.

Western, playing careful football, minus the costly fumbles which accounted for their former defeats, will be fighting hard to get out of the cellar up to even terms with McGill. Every member of the squad, from Joe Breen down, feel that they are not outclassed and should have had two wins and one loss instead of three losses. They still have a mathematical chance of getting into the play-offs and are not saying die yet.

Molson Stadium, Oct. 25

McGill's big Red team went through their final heavy workout before the Western game tonight. Coach Shaughnessy concentrated on the strong offensive which he is building up chiefly in preparation for the Queen's and Toronto games which loom on the horizon. The squad went through a scrimmage drill with Montreal's Wheelers and showed to advantage against their heavier opponents. The team which will start against Western Saturday is essentially the same as that which faced the Purple last Saturday. Johnny Riddell will be calling signals while Joe Smith will remain on the bench except in emergencies. Alongside him will be George Degnan who will not be used unless absolutely necessary. His regular berth continues to be filled by Hedge who has given an excellent account of himself in his recent appearances. The rest of the line will be the same as that of last week.

Strong Backfield

In the backfield besides Riddell, Markham, McLernon and Richert will face the kick-off. Gilbert and Byrne will be ready to take over the duties of these three at any time. Line subs are Ross, Mack, Ruschin and Wagner. The Western game is regarded to a certain extent as a testing ground for the new plays which have been developed during the week. At the same time the Redmen are not underestimating the strength of the Mustangs and will keep a particularly wary eye on the antics of Boyce Sherk, powerful triple-threat man whose work nearly spelled disaster for the Red and White last week. This youth reputedly packs a powerful kick, which somehow or other went wrong last Saturday. He will be opposed in this department by Richert, assisted by Riddell. The former has been giving a good account of himself in the hoofing role recently, however, and may pack a surprise for those Western supporters who are expecting their team to outkick the McGill squad.

Hockey

The first Practice will be held at the Forum today from 5 to 6. All turning out are reminded that they are to bring their own equipment, sticks and sweaters included. Hockey hours at the Forum: Mondays—5-6. Tuesdays—130-230. Wednesdays—130-230. Thursdays—130-230. Fridays—5-6. Saturdays—1230-136.

Intermediate Intercollegiate Trackmen Meet Today

Redmen Host To R. M. C. And Ottawa

Cinder Seconds Hope To Repeat Last Year's Senior Win

AFFAIR IS FIFTH OF ANNUAL ENGAGEMENTS

Coach Van Wagner's Squad Is Defending Title

THE McGill track and field season comes to an end today with the holding of the 5th annual intermediate intercollegiate meet. The colleges competing with McGill, are R.M.C. and Ottawa University. The meet was not held last year due to inclement weather conditions, but the year before McGill defeated R.M.C. and consequently will this year be defending the championship.

The Intermediate Track Meet will start at two o'clock today. Will all competitors please report on time. Any Senior Track men who are free are asked to attend today's meet to assist on the field.

Get Rest

Yesterday was an off-day for most of the McGill men, though Todd and Crowley, distance men, were limbering up for a short time, and several of the weight men took a few turns with the javelin, shot and discus. The team as a whole is in first class condition for today's meet and is prepared to follow the example set by the senior team last Friday.

The R.M.C. and Ottawa men are in town now, and are enthusiastic in their determination to win the meet. The small Ottawa group of Corcoran, Nixon and Courtwright has entered in nine events, and though it is hardly likely that they will succeed in winning all of these, the men are first class performers and should take places in most of them.

Records in Danger

Under good weather conditions the meet today should produce several record breakers, and it is not at all impossible that some of the times and distances recorded in the senior meet here last week will be beaten. The track is in excellent condition, and fast times should be chalked up in the runs. The pits are also in first class condition, and are an asset to the jumpers.

The meet is scheduled to commence at 2 o'clock, and the order of events will be much as it was last Friday. It is expected that the same officials who were in charge last week will be on hand again today, but as some of these men cannot attend Coach Van Wagner has asked that as many of the senior track squad as possible lend a hand.

Slants On Sports

By A. G.

JUST when we were about to lift our editorial hats in the direction of Queen's, along comes this Nu Sigma Nu gang with an offer to out those suspended footballers loose from the fraternal folds, thereby immediately allowing them to tear up to Richardson Stadium and dry the tutorial tears of Coach Theodore Reeves. So now it looks like the Tricolour may yet regain the services of How Hamlin, Bill Glass, Col. Dafee, I-don't-know-his-first-name Earle and ditto McNieloh, for whom funeral dirges have already been sung in Kingston's Cathedral of Intercollegiate Clout, and whose football demises were observed last week with much lamentation and indignation. The Alma Mater Society, confronted yesterday with the prospect of a plea for mercy on the part of the ostracized gridders who plan to absolve their sins by dissolving the links that bind them to forbidden fraternal affiliations, is in a tough spot. It is not yet known what their decision will be, but it's this observer's guess that the above-named gentlemen will be on deck when their erstwhile team-mates brave the Blue in Toronto next week. . . . It would indeed be a dizzy idea not to reinstate the culprits once the reason for their suspension has been removed. It shouldn't be a question here of vindicating the sanctity of student government, but of revising the law to the needs of the college. And, we hasten to add, we don't mean the football needs either. . . . By way of heaping indignation and nuts-to-you on the A.M.S., Coach Reeves master-minded his depleted squad of only fifteen men to an astounding victory last week over Varsity, the intercollegiate champions, in a thrilling battle in Kingston. Next Saturday the Tricolour returns the visit, and the Blueboys motivated no doubt by their celebrated hospitality, vow to return the compliment of last week's defeat. The sports barometer for Toronto Saturday is undoubtedly "Thunder and lightning, followed by light showers of blood."

LOCAL amateur hockey affairs assumed their usual pre-season boiling point a couple of days ago when the St. Francis club, which was refused a renewal of its operating license in the Senior City League, slapped a court injunction onto the surprised heads of the executive of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, which organization refused the renewal earlier in the season. The court action immediately suspended all the activities of the league, such as handing out amateur cards to the various squads, and no action can therefore be taken towards opening the official schedule on November 3, as advertised, until the court clears the protest off its books. Which leaves every prospective participant in the circuit with approximately as bad a headache as is now tormenting the agile minds of Alcide Gagnon, proxy of the league, and Ken Stewart, convener of same. . . . This St. Francis bunch has been the stormy petrel of local ice activity several times before, but they have never yet ventured to set the local constabulary onto the object of their wrath. Their present course of complaint seems to be resentment at their dismissal from the senior league after one year's trial, whereas Lafontaine and Verdun, who also entered the major circuit last season under the same conditions of trial, were readmitted to the league this year, while a team from Ottawa, which never had a trial at all, was chosen to take the place left empty by their own rejection. On the surface, the plea appears to be pretty well-founded, but the final decision rests with the local legal luminaries.

Frosh Gridders In Practice Tilt Tonight

THE frosh footballers get something in the way of a rest tonight when they meet a group of L.O.C. Old Boys in an exhibition at the Stadium, at 7.30. Dunc Anderson's lads have had a pretty strenuous season of it so far in the intermediate intercollegiate union, and the ranks are at present depleted to the extent of four men in various stages of injury, none very serious, but enough to keep them out of the game tonight. Captain McQuarrie is among the enforced resters, as are Russell, Kenny and Lewis. Anderson intends to use everybody who turns up for duty tonight. The starting line-up will probably consist of Novinger at flying wing, Anton, Dunphy and Matheson, the latter of the intermediates, in the backfield, Wally Wilson at quarter, and Ken Wilson, Jim Hall, Fletcher, Richardson, Lowry, Dunn and Porter on the front line. Cressy, Birks, Chadwick, Bradbury, Lloyd Smith, Neale, Monk and all other frosh who have played before, with the squad are asked to be on hand.

There are still positions to be filled among the crowd and as soldiers.

Heavenly Bodies Affect Conditions Of Crop Fertility

Washington.—The old superstitions that the moon and the planets affect the weather — "Potatoes should be planted in the dark of the moon and corn when the moon is full"—may be right after all.

A scientist has found that apparently there is something to it, and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace thinks enough of his findings to appoint him to the weather bureau for further study of the idea. The secretary hopes to find some sort of key to long-range weather forecasting that will help farmers to prepare for such disasters as the drought of 1934.

The positions of some of the planets, especially Jupiter, apparently have had a regular effect on the weather for 50 years at Des Moines, Ia., according to the findings of the 26-year-old scientist Larry Page. When certain planets were in certain positions, he found, the weather in Des Moines was always warmer, and when they were in colder.

Weather experts say that if the planets do effect earthy weather it is probably by their gravitational attraction or "pull" on the earth's atmosphere. As the planets circle around the sun along with the earth, they may exert a "pull" of varying strength on the earth when they are in different positions. This might result in movements of masses of air in the atmosphere over the earth's surface resulting in weather changes, including temperature, rainfall and atmosphere pressure.

As the planets and earth circle around the sun they are sometimes nearer to it, sometimes farther away. Page has found that when the planet Jupiter is nearest to the sun the temperature at Des Moines averages nearly one degree below normal.

When Jupiter swings around to its position farthest from the sun, on the other hand, Des Moines is about 17 degrees hotter than normal. When Jupiter is farthest south in relation to the earth it seems to bring colder weather, at least at Des Moines, and warmer weather when it is farthest north.

These temperature changes may result because the gravitational pull of Jupiter may send cold air masses blowing over Des Moines when the planet is in one position and warm air masses when it is in another. If any of the planets affect earthy weather, Jupiter probably has the most effect because it is the largest and therefore would have the strongest gravitational pull.

The moon, according to Page's findings, brings cooler weather in Des Moines when it is farthest south and warmer when it is farthest north, in spring and fall, but in summer these conditions are reversed. In winter it has little effect.

"Finally, it is beneficial at times to change quarterbacks, sometimes during a sustained march toward the goal line.

"If the substitute quarterback goes into the game with this music running through his mind, he will continue to drive his team along. Without this music he might call the signals faster or slower than his predecessor and throw the team off balance, spoiling the touchdown drive."

South Bend, Ind. — In an effort to develop perfect rhythm in the Notre Dame football team's plays this year, Coach Elmer Layden is making one of the most unusual experiments ever tried on a college gridiron.

During practice sessions the Notre Dame band is playing specially written martial airs with which the team is being taught to co-ordinate and synchronize the Rockne shift.

"This experiment," Layden says, should also key up the team and send
